

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A tool for allowing a user to take exercise, includes: an exercise amount measuring unit for measuring an exercise amount of the user; a data storing unit for storing a predetermined character string or image; and an output unit for outputting the predetermined character string or image stored in the data storing unit when the exercise amount measured by the exercise measuring unit has reached a predetermined exercise amount.